Our new line of Green Line Precision Tools are produced of recycled stainless steel. They are made in Pakistan where the majority of the labour-intensive work is still done by hands. This range is ideal for all segments of the hobby market; scrap-booking, needlepoint, sewing, beading, jewelry making and general crafting.

Stainless steel consists of numerous, valuable raw materials such as chromium, nickle and molybdenum. This alone makes recycling stainless steel economically viable. The overall enviroment benefits include:

- ☒ Minimal use of primary energy
- ☒ Saves non-renewable resources
- ☒ Reduces the waste stream
- ☒ Results in less pollution than milling virgin stainless steel

Our titanium instrument line is 6% Aluminum and 4% Vanadium. Titanium is immune to corrosion, is non-magnetic and has an excellent weight to strength ratio. It's weight is nearly 50% less than that of 400 series stainless steel. Most of our instruments can be produced in Titanium and can be finished in satin or non-reflective blue
